DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The term "softly magnetic" in claims 1 and 17-18 is a relative term which renders the claims indefinite. The term "softly" is not defined by the claim, the specification does not provide a standard for ascertaining the requisite degree, and one of ordinary skill in the art would not be reasonably apprised of the scope of the invention. The term "soft magnetic" is an art recognized term. It is not clear if the metes and bounds of "softly" magnetic and "soft magnetic" are the same.

The term "desirable" in claims 2-16 renders the claims indefinite. Desirable means "preferred" but not necessarily "required." Thus, the recitations following "desirable" are not considered to be positively claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-2 and 11-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Takahashi et al. (US 6709768).

Takahashi et al. disclose a perpendicular magnetic recording medium having a substrate, a soft magnetic layer, a 4 nm thick NiTaZr intermediate layer (corresponding to the claimed NiTa alloy orientation control layer), a magnetic recording layer and a protective overcoat (col. 5, lines 36-44; col. 6, lines 1-7; col. 8, lines 19-22).

5. Claims 1-4 and 13-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by JP 1-263910.

JP 1-263910 discloses a perpendicular magnetic recording medium having a substrate, a soft magnetic layer, a CuTi intermediate layer (corresponding to the claimed CuTi orientation control layer), a magnetic recording layer and a protective overcoat (see table on page 5 of Japanese document and Fig 1; see English abstract).

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 5-10 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
